Verfassungsblog
ON MATTERS CONSTITUTIONAL

We are:

- ... a global forum of scholarly debate at the interface of academy and society, making knowledge about democracy and the rule of law freely and openly accessible – international, interdisciplinary, and Open Access.
- ... faster and more up-to-date than traditional journals and provide academic expertise with broad public visibility.
- ... independent, non-profit and not an annex of a university, research institution or publishing house.

- 800+ blog posts/year
- 219.000+ readers/month
- 3.900+ authors
- 8 editors

Impact of financial contributions:

- Through their financial contributions supporting institutions ensure that Verfassungsblog can legal expertise available to researchers and the broader public in Germany, Europe, and beyond without barriers to access. In this way, they support free academic discourse and help researchers at their institutions to gain visibility far beyond national borders.
- Supporting institutions receive more visibility through the integration of their logo in the contributions of affiliated authors on the website.
- Supporting institutions are provided with the Verfassungsblatt, which compiles the articles published each month as a PDF.
